MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION & ANALYSIS REPORT

INDUSTRY STRUCTURE AND DEVELOPMENTS:

Indian animation studios typically provide three different types of services to their clientele, namely content production, outsourced animation services and collaborative animation services. Most Indian animation studios have adopted a low risk-low return business model, with the studios working either on a time and material basis (payment based on actual hours and expenses) or on a fixed payment basis (fixed fee for the project) with most of the outsourced animation work coming from studios in U.S., Canada and Europe. The partnership could be between one or more animation studios in India, between Indian animation studios and studios abroad, Indian studios and foreign TV channels/ film producers, studios and advertising firms etc. Moreover, in outsourced animation services, the intellectual property of the product rests with the outsourcing firm.

Key challenges

Animation outsourcing has been a challenging business segment for studios in India, which have geared up to provide high-quality work to their clients through highly trained personnel who understood the needs of the clients. However, the studios are not in a position to withstand the high levels of competition from other Asian countries like China, Philippines, and the Far East. The Indian government offers little or no support to the studios in sustaining their efforts to secure more business from customers, who are focused solely on the cost arbitrage offered by studios in Asia, making it extremely tough for Indian animation studios to survive.

Lack of awareness and training

Animation is not highly popular as other career options available to youngsters in India today. This has resulted in the absence of employable resources. Even the available resources are not up to the mark as India is lacking in a standardized and quality curriculum aimed at producing the required manpower for the sector. There are few good schools in India for learning animation, illustration or design and the curriculum is also not up to international standards.

Piracy

Piracy is rampant in India. The Weak IP Regulation and ineffective enforcement policies tend to discourage players in the animation sector from producing their own IP, driving the sector down further into the ground.

Insufficient government support

Indian animation players lack government support that encourages growth of animation when compared to competing nations such as China, Japan, Canada, Malaysia, U.K., U.S. etc. either through favorable policy or tax rebates and grants.

There are many independent companies which are working on developing games. Presently, the gaming sector has its sights set on smart phone games because it is readily available and has a wider reach.

The technical expertise is making a mark in the world of gaming as well, animation for which has grown.

The company exercises an increased focus on risk management, especially as emerging opportunities always come with risks. To identify and manage risks, our risk management committee, comprising of three of the company's directors, is always ready to examine and analyze the proposals and mitigate the risks through appropriate measures. Businesses evolve on a continual basis and it is not possible for any business to depend upon a specific model and assume that it is foolproof because it has been tried and tested. In a business environment fraught with risks and further complicated by competition from the global environment, we are always looking for operational agility and effective project execution. This shall come to our aid in the long run.

MATERIAL DEVELOPMENTS IN HUMAN RESOURCES/ INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS:

At Sriven, we have always been focused on providing a high-quality workplace for our employees. We have always striven to raise the bar when it came to employee satisfaction and know how to judiciously balance monetary remuneration with the need for balancing personal life with workplace achievement. Given the opportunity, when the suspension of our shares lifts, we feel confident of our ability to offer the best possible work environment with opportunities for development.
